A THRILLING RIDE.

The Piano Run a Frenchman Gave a Locomotive Engineer.
"I was loitering around the streets last night," said Jim Nelson, one of the old locomotive engineers running into New Orleans. "As I had nothing to do I dropped into a concert and heard a sleek looking Frenchman play a piano in a way that made me feel all over in the stool. As soon as he sat down on the stool I knew by the way he handled himself that he understood the machine he was running. He tapped the keys away up one end, just as if they were gauges and he wanted to see if he had water enough. Then he looked up as if he wanted to know how much steam he was carrying, and the next moment he pulled over the throttle and sailed on to the main line as if he was half an hour late. You could hear his thunder over culverts and bridges and getting faster and faster, until the fellow rocked about in his seat like a cradle. Somehow I thought it was old 38 pulling a passenger train and getting out of the way of a special. The fellow worked the keys on the middle division like lightning, and then he flew along the north end of the line until the drivers went around like a buzz saw and I got excited. About the time I was fixing to tell him to cut her off a little he kicked the dampers under the machine wide open, pulled the throttle away back in the tender, and how he did run! I couldn't stand it any longer, and yelled to him that he was pounding in the left side, and if he wasn't careful he'd drop his ash pan. But he didn't hear. No one heard me. Everything was flying and whirling. Telegraph poles on the side of the track looked like a row of cornstalks, and trees appeared to be a mudbank, and all the time the exhaust of the old machine sounded like the hum of a bumblebee. I tried to yell out, but my tongue wouldn't move. He went around the curves like a bullet, slipped an eccentric, blew out his soft plug—went down grades fifty feet to the mile and not a controlling brake set. She went by the meeting point at a mile and a half a minute, and calling for more steam. My hair stood up straight, because I knew the game was up. Sure enough, dead ahead of us in a daze I heard the crash as they struck, and I saw cars shivered into atoms, people smashed and mangled and bleeding and gasping for water. I heard another crash as the French professor struck the deep keys away down on the lower end of the southern division, and then I came to my senses. There he was at a dead standstill, with the door of the firebox of the machine open, wiping the perspiration off his face and bowing to the people before him. If I live to be a thousand years old I'll never forget the ride that Frenchman gave me on a piano."

Heat.

Little things like bacilli will live in a temperature of above 211 degrees F. Experimental observations of stokers have shown that man is a cousin to the salamander. Dante made six fiery circles of hell and felt constrained to resort to ice for the seventh and last condemnation of souls. Heat, in other words, is a relative term. Heat is beneficial if you like things hot. It depends on the point of view. Heat is supposed to be enervating. The hookworm is engendered by it. But, then, a race horse will go much faster on a hot day than a cool one. The ferocious rays of the sun appear to lubricate the joints. There are various kinds of heat, such as just common, everyday heat, prickly heat and the heat of debate, etc.—Kansas City Times.

A Spartan Father.

Recently a first year high school pupil handed her history teacher what she evidently considered an exhaustive and final study of Laedaemonian customs. In it she stated that one Spartan habit of strengthening youth was to compel the boys to sleep always on beds and thistles.

The incident reminds one of a story that is told of one of the Camerons of Lochiel.
The chief, when bivouacking with his son in the snow, noticed that the lad had rolled up a snowball to make a pillow. He thereupon rose and kicked it away, saying sternly, "No effeminacy, boy!"—Youth's Companion.

Burning a Diamond.

The diamond was first burned by Davy and Faraday in 1844. It was held on a platinum rod in a glass globe of twenty-two cubic inches of pure hydrogen and the Duke of Tuscany's burning glass—a lens of fourteen inches and one-half feet—concentrated the sun's heat. In three-quarters of an hour the stone burst into a scarlet flame. Out of focus it blazed four minutes and was consumed in two more trials.

Playing Safe.

"Johnny," said the teacher, "this is the third time I have had to punish you this week. Why are you so naughty?"
"Because," answered the incorrigible youngster, "grandpa says the good die young, and I ain't takin' any chances."—Chicago News.

NEW VALUES

Here are goods just received at less than regular prices that go onto our tables with our sale goods. These came this morning and are seasonable goods at very close prices as follows:

HALF PRICE

Just received about 300 yards Eden Cloth in all designs, mostly stripes. This is an imitation of Scotch flannel and a very close resemblance; stripes are the same, has that woolly look that Scotch flannel has. This is a cloth used for children's skirts and dresses and in our whole stock. Our price has always been 15c per yard. Now we are to sell this lot at 12 1/2c per yard.

New lot of Embroidered Front Ladies' Tailored Waists in white. This lot at $1.19 each. All sizes.

One lot of 40-inch Checked Lawn for ladies' corset covers and night robes. These are a job lot and the price is but 15c per yard, instead of 25c, the usual price.

The three above values are in small lots, so act quick.

SPECIAL

All of our Children's Straw Hats at half price and all of our Ladies' Colored Wool Suits at half price, together with lots of Waists and Separate Coats.

Our sale of Dress Goods at 50c should get good shoppers busy, as these are cloths costing to-day at wholesale more than our price to you. Here are $1.00 Colored Wool Taffetas at 50c and 60-inch Panamas in colors at 50c, for skirts or whole suits.

All Remnants left over from our Saturday sale will be shown the week of August 15, or until sold. These are helpers to careful buyers.

Our 10c table of Wash Goods has good things to know about.
Twenty-cent Curtain Serims at 15c and 12½c White Curtain Muslin at 10c are about as good as you can do.

REGAL SHOES

You may listen or close your ears to our story on Regal Shoes; nevertheless, at our sale price of $2.49, it is the best Oxford Shoe proposition that you have ever had offered to you. It is a very, very low price, and the Shoe we honestly believe to be the best fitting, longest wearing Shoe sold to-day for this price.

The swell trade of New York, who can afford to pay fabulous prices for custom-made Shoes, are to-day taking Regal Shoes as a better proposition; they like a Regal style, they like the quarter size fit, and the Shoe stands up, will not squat over at the heel. They are your kind, once you try a pair, and $2.49 for a $4.00 Shoe should help you to try one pair right now.

We are closing out our Ladies' Rubbers and are selling all styles at 50c per pair. These were 75c. Storm Rubbers in the lot. Nearly all sizes.

We have a modern sponging plant in our basement so that we can do a perfect job of sponging on all kinds of goods. This means all kinds even to fine silks and velvets. It refinishes and irons at the same time. Give us a try for a perfect job.

SHOOTING ACCIDENTAL

Is Belief Held in Connection With George Boles' Death.

Woodstock, Aug. 15.—George Boles, the seventeen-year-old son of Oliver Boles, who resides about a mile out of this village on the Puffert road, accidentally shot and killed himself Friday evening.

The young man had been hunting woodchucks with a shotgun in the afternoon, and returning homeward, stopped at the Buck farm near his home, where two young Russians with whom he was intimate, live by themselves. They also had been hunting woodchucks and had left their rifles under a window outside the house.

Boles picked up one of the rifles and it went off, the ball entering his face under the right eye and lodging in the back of the skull, killing him instantly.

The authorities believe there is no doubt that the shooting was accidental and no investigation will be made.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"The Girl From Rector's" Had a Big Run in New York City.

It is doubtful if a play has been seen in this city in many years that has attracted such wide attention as that accorded "The Girl From Rector's." The piece had its initial offering in New Jersey and was brought to Weber's music hall simply for a metropolitan try-out, but its success was so great it continued an uninterrupted run of three hundred nights and played the largest business in the history of the house. Critics declare it is one of the few productions of its sort ever made that carries with it a high class plot and still contains a laugh in every line of the dialogue. Paul M. Potter, the author of the work, who was also responsible for "Tilly," and many other celebrated stage successes, received more royalties from "The Girl" last season than was paid any other writer for a single work in such short space of time.

The story of "The Girl" is that of a young society woman of Battle Creek, Mich., who is interested in every charity there. For recreation, however, she comes to New York and through occasional visits to Rector's earns the title. When she returns suddenly to her home she finds many of her metropolitan friends there, and entertainments ensue which are not explained until just before the fall of the curtain on the last act. "The Girl" will be seen at the opera house next Saturday, Aug. 20.
